231+/- Acres Harrison, Maine

History

Harrison was named after Harrison Gray Otis of Boston and was taken from the towns of Bridgton and Otisfield. The town was originally called Pondicherry, in 1805 the part of Bridgton laying on the east side of Long Pond containing about 8500 acres was taken off to form the new town of Harrison and united with the west side part of the Crooked River in Otisfield. The town was incorporated in March 8, 1805.

Buck Farm Ownership

Built in 1824/25 by Rev. Clement Phinney

Bought by John Johnson and Sold to Benjamin Foster 1830

Benjamin Foster sells to Henry Buck in 1831

Henry Buck sells to his son Adelbert Buck in 1893

Adelbert Buck sells to son Leland Buck in 1919

Leland Buck sells to daughter Madelyn Buck in 1979

Madelyn was the last Buck to live here she passed away in 2017

The Buck Farm was owned by the Buck Family for approximately 186 years

After Adelbert bought the Farm he build a new barn and attached it to the house replacing the ramshackle barn across the road. He also modernized the house and added a second floor at this time.
